What will you receive as part of our pension scheme?

Are you retiring? Then you will receive a life-long retirement pension from us. You will receive this as of the month in which you turn 68.

If you pass away while working at General Electric, your partner will receive a partner pension. Your children qualify for an orphan's pension.

If you become incapacitated for work, your pension accrual will continue (in part), but you will no longer pay any contributions yourself. You may also be entitled to a disability pension; this depends on your salary.

The pension regulations state exactly what your pension scheme provides.

What will you not receive as part of our pension scheme?

If you pass away while you are no longer working for this employer, your partner will not receive partner pension from us, and your children will not receive orphan's pension. Unless you have decided, at the end of participation or on the pension commencement date to convert the retirement pension into a combination of retirement and partner pension (plus orphan's pension).

How do you accrue pension?

You accrue pension in three ways:

- A. State retirement pension (AOW): you receive this pension from the government if you live or work in the Netherlands. Read more about AOW at www.svb.nl.
- B. Pension at Stap Pensioenkring GE Nederland You accrue this pension through your employer. This is explained in this Pension 1-2-3.
- C. Pension you arrange yourself. By way of an annuity or bank savings, for instance.

Each year, you accrue part of your pension. The pension you accrue in this manner is the sum total of all those pieces. This is referred to as the average pay scheme. You will receive this pension for as long as you live from your retirement date.

Each year, you accrue pension over part of your gross pensionable salary. You will not do so over your entire salary. The part of your salary over which you do not accrue pension is called the offset. The offset is € 18,584 (2025). In 2025, you accrue 1.875% pension over your gross salary (up to € 137,800) minus the offset.

Your employer pays the pension contribution to us. Perhaps you pay an employee contribution yourself. If you pay an employee contribution, your employer deducts this from your gross salary. If you are not yet 18 years of age, you do not accrue pension. You are, however, insured against the risk of incapacity for work and mortality risk. But you do not pay any contributions.

What choices do you have?

Do you wish to exchange part of your partner pension for extra retirement pension? The retirement pension that was commuted into partner pension at the end of participation can be commuted back into retirement pension on the retirement date.

Do you wish to exchange part of your retirement pension for extra partner pension for your partner? This is possible at two points in time: when you leave employment or when you retire.

Do you want to start off with a higher pension or, conversely, a lower pension? This is only possible when you take full retirement.

Do you want to take early or late retirement? That is possible. Discuss this with your employer in advance.

If you change jobs, you may transfer your previously accrued pension to your new pension administrator.

Do you want to take partial retirement? That is possible. Discuss this with your employer in advance.

How secure is your pension?

The amount of your pension is not fixed as we are faced with a number of risks, including the following:

- The average age of people in the Netherlands is increasing. This means that we have to pay their pension for a longer period of time.
- Low interest rates mean that pensions become more expensive. This means that we require more money to be able to pay the same pension.
- The results of our investments may be disappointing.

Stap and socially responsible investment policy

Stap uses the ESG criteria in its socially responsible investment policy. ESG stands for Environmental, Social and Governance and refers to the three most important aspects that determine how sustainable an investment is.

All pension funds fall under the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR) agreements. It is not yet opportune for Stap to examine the negative sustainability impact of investment choices on society (as explained in EU SFDR agreements) and to adjust them where necessary. Stap currently does not have the right information to do so. More information about this can be found in the Actuarial and operating memorandum (ABTN, investment principles).

During your membership of the pension scheme, we will index the pension you have accrued each year on the basis of the CLA wages.

In the last five years the pensions for participants increased as follows:

	Indexation	Price increase
2024	6.94%	3.50%
2023	6.31%	0.21%
2022	3.39%	14.53%
2021	2.00%	2.70%
2020	3.00%	1.10%

As of 1 September 2021, the Pensioenfonds GE pension scheme was transferred to Stap. The percentages mentioned above up to and including the year 2021 are the percentages determined by Pensioenfonds GE Nederland.

In the event of a shortfall, we will take one or several of the following measures, if necessary:

- The pension does not increase in line with the wages.
- Your contribution increases.
- Your pension is reduced. We only do this as a last resort. So far we have not had to reduce the pensions.

The likelihood that your pension will be reduced is small at Stap Pensioenkring GE Nederland. If the pension section is not doing so well financially, General Electric will be obliged to pay additional funds to the pension section. A reduction of your pension only applies if the continued existence of the employer is at stake and it is unable to comply with this financial obligation.

In addition, the employer pays a contribution for an unconditional indexation. This helps your pension to grow in line with the increase in wages.

In the last five years the pensions have not been lowered.

What costs do we incur?

Stap incurs the following costs when administering the pension scheme:

- Costs of asset management.
- Administrative costs.
